

Argentario and the creative and wild Maremma

THREE DAYS OF MEDITERRANEAN LANDSCAPES, RURAL TRADITIONS AND UNEXPECTED ENCOUNTERS WITH ART.

Argentario's coast and island horizons

Hidden coves, historic harbours and the wild beauty of the Tuscan coast.

Set out from Porto Ercole on a boat reserved for your party, discovering the Argentario coastline from the sea. Rocky headlands, sheltered coves and slopes covered in Mediterranean vegetation reveal the character of this corner of Tuscany, where the hills meet the water.

Giglio Island may be included where the agreed route and sea conditions allow, offering a different perspective on the Tuscan Archipelago. The skipper will shape the day's itinerary and any swimming stops according to conditions and local access requirements.

Return to Porto Ercole for a guided walk through its historic streets and harbour. The Spanish fortifications overlooking the town recall its importance within the sixteenth-century State of the Presidi, adding a layer of history to the coastal scenery.

Maremma wines and rural traditions

Vineyards, contemporary architecture and the enduring traditions of the Tuscan countryside.

Head inland to discover the Maremma through its vineyards, rural landscapes and agricultural traditions. A pre-booked visit to a wine estate such as Rocca di Frassinello or Tenuta Monteti introduces the wines of this part of Tuscany and the producers' interpretations of the territory.

At Rocca di Frassinello, Renzo Piano's winery architecture brings a contemporary dimension to the experience, while the estate's archaeological exhibition explores the area's ancient connection with wine. A tasting completes the visit, and an introduction to local olive oil may be added where offered.

For a closer encounter with rural life, an experience connected with the Butteri—the Maremma's traditional mounted cattle herders—may be requested. Where a suitable host is available, a riding or working demonstration offers an insight into the skills and customs of this pastoral tradition, with lunch arranged separately where possible.

Alternatively, explore the Maremma Regional Park on a guided nature walk along a permitted route, discovering the landscape at a slower pace and taking time to observe its vegetation and wildlife.

Capalbio and the visionary Tarot Garden

Medieval charm, artistic imagination and the creative spirit of southern Tuscany.

Begin in Capalbio, where stone lanes and small squares invite an unhurried guided walk through the historic village. Enjoy lunch featuring regional cuisine, with time to browse local shops. An appointment focused on leather goods or the traditional Maremmana jacket may be arranged on request, subject to a suitable artisan's availability.

In the afternoon, visit Niki de Saint Phalle's Tarot Garden within its seasonal opening arrangements. Monumental figures inspired by the tarot emerge among the greenery, their surfaces covered in colourful ceramics, glass and mirrors. Walking between them offers an encounter with art that feels both playful and personal, as changing light and reflections become part of the experience.

Alternatively, devote the afternoon to Terme di Saturnia, with spa access and any treatments booked in advance, bringing the itinerary to a relaxed close.
