AND CENTURIES OF MOUNTAIN HERITAGE.

Mont Blanc Views & Alpine Wines

From glacier panoramas to high-altitude vineyards shaped by the mountains.

Begin with an ascent on Skyway Monte Bianco alongside a dedicated mountain guide, discovering the landscape surrounding Mont Blanc, the highest peak in the Alps. From the panoramic terraces, glaciers, granite ridges and snow-covered summits reveal the scale of the massif and offer a different perspective on the valleys below.

Return to the valley for a winery visit and tasting arranged in advance. Discover the wines of the Aosta Valley, where steep slopes, small vineyard terraces and demanding mountain conditions sustain a tradition of heroic viticulture. These wines offer an intimate expression of their Alpine setting, shaped by altitude and the work of growers tending this challenging terrain. A lunch featuring regional produce completes the experience.

Where available, a tasting connected with Cave Mont Blanc's high-altitude cellar may be arranged as an optional experience, subject to confirmation.

Alpine Valleys & Mountain Life

Meadows, mountain trails and local flavours beneath the Mont Blanc massif.

Spend the day exploring Val Ferret or Val Veny, where meadows, larch forests and mountain streams unfold beneath the peaks of the Mont Blanc massif. The changing scenery brings together the gentler rhythms of valley life and the presence of glaciers and rocky summits above. Choose a guided walk or an e-bike adventure, following a route tailored to your interests, ability and seasonal conditions, with time to pause and enjoy the landscape.

Lunch at a mountain refuge or chalet introduces the flavours and hospitality of the valley. Depending on the menu, try polenta concia, enriched with local Fontina cheese and butter—a warming expression of mountain cooking, particularly welcome after a morning outdoors.

Alternatively, discover the mountain scenery on a guided Jeep excursion in suitable valleys, following a permitted seasonal route.

Castles & Valley Heritage

Fortresses, medieval stories and the cultural crossroads of the Alps.

Discover another side of the Aosta Valley through its castles and fortresses, reminders of the region's long history as a passage through the Alps. Visit Fort Bard or Castello di Fénis with a dedicated guide during visitor hours, exploring their architecture and history against a backdrop of mountain slopes and small villages.

Rising above the village of Bard, the fortress commands the entrance to the valley; its imposing architecture also served as a filming location for Avengers: Age of Ultron. Fénis offers a different atmosphere, with towers, crenellated walls and a frescoed courtyard that evoke the world of the medieval Alpine nobility.

Alternatively, cross into France for a day in Chamonix, with time to explore the town, browse its shops and galleries, and enjoy a different perspective on the Mont Blanc massif.
