Prosecco Hills & Vineyard Traditions

Rolling vineyards, family producers and the winemaking culture of the Veneto hills.

Journey through the Prosecco hills with a dedicated driver and guide, following winding country roads between steep vineyards and small villages. As the landscape opens around each bend, cultivated slopes and scattered farmhouses reveal a region where wine growing remains closely woven into everyday life.

A winery visit and tasting arranged in advance introduces Conegliano Valdobbiadene Prosecco Superiore DOCG, exploring its delicate aromas, freshness and the different expressions produced across the hills. Meeting a local producer offers an insight into the work behind each bottle, from tending the slopes to the choices made in the cellar.

Enjoy a lunch featuring Veneto specialities, with time to pause and take in the surrounding countryside. Alternatively, discover the vineyards on a guided walk, following a route suited to your interests and ability, complemented by a tasting at a local producer.

Asolo, Canova & Venetian Heritage

Historic towns, Italian art and centuries of craftsmanship between the hills.

Begin with a guided walk through Asolo, where historic streets, shaded corners and elegant squares open onto views of the surrounding hills. Take time to enjoy the town's atmosphere before continuing to Possagno for a visit to Museo Gypsotheca Antonio Canova.

Here, the sculptor's plaster models bring his creative process into focus: gestures, draped fabrics and finely observed faces reveal the care behind the finished works. A dedicated guide introduces the collections, offering a closer understanding of Canova's approach to movement and form. A lunch featuring regional cuisine completes the day.

Alternatively, discover Bassano del Grappa through a guided walk around its historic centre, enjoying the relationship between the town, its river and the surrounding mountains. An introduction to local grappa-making traditions, with a museum visit and tasting arranged in advance, explores how grape pomace becomes one of Veneto's characteristic spirits. Continue to Marostica, where medieval streets lead to the celebrated chessboard square, the setting for the town's traditional living chess event.

Treviso & Seasonal Flavours

Canals, local produce and the seasonal traditions of Veneto cuisine.

Explore Treviso with a dedicated guide, following its canals past waterside buildings and through historic squares. Reflections on the water and the rhythm of daily life give the city an intimate appeal, inviting an unhurried walk before a visit to Museo Santa Caterina to discover its artistic heritage.

Continue with a visit to a local producer to learn about Radicchio Rosso di Treviso, whose distinctive colour, crisp texture and pleasantly bitter flavour make it a signature ingredient of Veneto's cooking. A regional lunch brings these culinary traditions to the table.

Radicchio production is strongly seasonal, and the visit will depend on the agricultural calendar and the activities taking place at the time of travel. When a producer visit is unavailable, a cooking class centred on seasonal Veneto ingredients may be arranged instead, followed by lunch featuring the dishes prepared.

Alternatively, visit Castello di Roncade for a pre-booked tour and wine tasting, bringing together the architecture of a historic Venetian estate and its continuing winemaking traditions.
